

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

Occupational therapy is the use of occupation to promote health and wellness. They are health professionals who use meaningful activities with specific goals to help people of all ages prevent, lessen, or adapt to disabilities. The activities may be as basic as bathing and eating, or as complex as operating a computer with modified controls. Some ways occupational therapists might use their skills include, assisting the mentally ill in returning home, helping stroke victims return to independent living, evaluating children with delayed development, aquatic therapy, or providing seminars and consultation to industries to help promote safe and ergonomically sound approaches for employees to carry out responsibilities.

IS CLINICAL EXPERIENCE REQUIRED OR HELPFUL? IF SO, HOW MANY HOURS?

UT-Memphis requires observation of an occupational therapist. Most applicants typically spend 40 hours in at least 2 work settings, (community, rehab, pediatrics, geriatrics). UT-Memphis looks favorably on someone who has done clinical work because that gives them an objective OT professional who can evaluate you. UTM figures that if you did pre-clinical work and still want to be an OT, then you are dedicated to the field.
