WHAT A NIGHT

Oh, What a Night! After "Oh, What a Night," is the feeling of Olden Gay after that party he slipped off and attended. He is an eligible widower, Old and Gay, who has succumbed to an engagement with Mrs. Fields, a stern and domineering widow. The two were brought together by their son and daughter, Ned Gay, and Harriet Fields, who have been sweethearts for some time. Olden resents the chains that are drawing him in and works up a scheme to enable him to get off to attend the annual Hallowe'en Masquerade at the White Elephant Cafe. Ned and his friend, Jack Moore, who is engaged to Dolly Marse, also decide to go and make their fiancées believe they are off on business.

"Honey" and Dolly, thus left alone, decide to be gay and attend the Masquerade in costume. The fun comes in where Jerry, the cashier at Gay's Hotel, duplicates their costume and agrees to go with Patrick O'Hoolihan, the expressman, and even Mrs. Fields deems it necessary to go a scouting trip, in the very same costume. There are four "females" dressed alike at the Masquerade, to the confusion of Olden Gay, Ned, Jack, Patrick, and even Billy, the bell-boy, who helps out in the night rush at the White Elephant. And then the explanations next day—Oh, What a Day.

This is the synopsis of the play to be given on Wednesday night of commencement at eight o'clock. The parts in this farce are very ably taken by the following:

Olden Gay, proprietor of "The Fall and Hotel"—Ross Spears
Ned Gay, his son—Stansell Vernon.

Mrs. Christiana Fields, a widow—Catherine Burrow.

Harriet "Honey" Fields, her daughter—Rebecca Upton.

Jack Moore, a young business man—Harry Payne.

Dolly Marse, his fiancée—Margaret McNatt.

Jerry, cashier at the hotel—Imogene Bailey.

Billy Malone, the bell boy—John Brinn.

Patrick O'Hoolihan, an expressman—Wayne Grisso.

Marcelle—Mildred Tate.

Colette—Mary Faye Wall.

FIFTY STUDENTS MAKE ANNUAL SIGHT-SEEING TOUR

Early on the morning of May 2, a group of about 50 F. H. C. students assembled to make the annual sight-seeing tour, visiting the Pickwick Dam and Shiloh National Military Park.

Transportation was furnished by two buses. The students were chaperoned by Bro. and Mrs. Endsley.

After leaving Henderson the party went first to Pickwick where they stopped at the Recreation Hall. Here they enjoyed games of ping pong and checkers. A special movie was shown, for the benefit of the visitors illustrating the various projects and progress made on different dams of the Tennessee Valley.

After lunch, which was served at the Pickwick Cafeteria, the group visited the dam site. Here, from the observation tower, the guide, an ex-student of F. H. C. explained the various projects.

After visiting these points of interest, the students turned toward Shiloh. Here such historical places as, Bloody Pond, the Hornet's Nest, the place of Johnston's death and (continued on page three)

GRADUATING CLASS

SELLERS, HARDEMAN WIN TENNIS TITLES

The tennis club of F. H. C. sponsored its first tournament of the year with 18 entries in both men's and women's singles. Finalists in the women's singles were Misses Katherine Burrow and Camille Hardeman. Miss Hardeman was extended in the first set and through her consistent driving and placement was able to win by the close score of 7-5. She easily won the second set by score of 6-10 which gave her the championship in the women's division of tennis in F. H. C. Miss Eleanor Kenner defeated Miss Crystal Fondow in the consolation finals, Miss Kenner having been defeated by Miss Burrow in the semi-finals of the meet.

The finalists in the men's division were Victor Sellers and Charles Roland. As was predicted by those that had watched the players during the season, Victor Sellers, president of the Tennis Club, easily won. In his 63 games of the tournament, he lost only three. He won the finals by the score of 6-0, 6-1, 6-0. Sellers' unsurpassed ability as a tennis player brings for him many words of favorable comment where-as he performs.

From the results of the tennis tournament, teams were picked to represent the school in intercollegiate matches. The girls team is composed of Camille Hardeman as first singles player, Catherine Burrow as second singles player and Eleanor Kenner as alternate.

On April 17, our teams went to Lambuth College at Jackson where Elenor Swift, Lambuth's first singles player defeated Camille Hardeman by a score of 6-1, 6-0. Catherine Burrow was unable to make the trip so Eleanor Kenner, alternate, took her place. She was defeated by Marjorie Swift by a score of 6-0, 6-1. In the boy's singles, Victor Sellers defeated Ennis Robbins 7-5, 6-3. The second team player for Lambuth, Tom Swift, defeated Charles Roland 6-3, 6-0. Gardner Ray defeated Wayne Grisso 6-4, 6-4.

In the women's doubles, Hardeman and Kenner defeated Aldridge and Swift by a score of 6-2, 8-6. (continued on page three)

Societies

SIGMA RHO SOCIETY

In the last few weeks the Sigma Rhos have had several interesting programs, among them one portraying the anxiety of a family on their way to one of its meetings. Proof of its effectiveness came from the very hearty response from the audience.

The officers elected to serve the remainder of this year are: Bro. Ross Spears, President; C. W. Scott, first Vice President; Victor Sellers, second Vice President; Avis Creasy, Secretary and Treasurer; Darwyn Stovall, Reporter. This is one of the best groups of officers that the society has ever had. They have contributed much to the betterment of each of its members.

The biggest event that has happened in the society for some time was a picnic. The Sigmas went out in the country about a mile. All afternoon the woods resounded with the singing, laughing, shouting, running and talking. Weiners and marshmallows were roasted and eaten along with sandwiches, and lemonade. The success of the picnic was due to the work of the committee composed of Catherine Burrow and Ardin Ward. Bro. Rivenbark acted as our sponsor.

The Sigma Rhos began this year with a very small number of members and now at the end of the year has climbed to about three or four times the number. From the increase in the members one can see that there must be something that has caused it. The answer is this—The wonderful associations, experiences and enjoyable moments one gets from belonging to such an organization.

The Sigma Rho Society takes this opportunity to wish each one the best of luck and happiness. May you have a pleasant vacation and by your work be brought closer to your God, increase your love for Him, and help you to understand His work.

JUNIORS HONOR GRADUATES AT COLORFUL BANQUET

Thursday night, May 14, the Junior class entertained the Senior class with the traditional Junior-Senior Banquet. The banquet was held in the dining hall of the college.

At 8 o'clock the guests were received in the flower-decked lobby of the administration building by the officers of the two classes. These were: Frank VanDyke, President; Margaret McNatt, Secretary and Treasurer, as well as the Sponsors of the two classes, Bro. W. C. Hall and Mrs. W. B. Powers. After the guests had assembled, the President of the Junior class led the march to the dining hall.

The class colors are green and white and the class flower is the white rose, therefore, the theme for the evening embodied these symbols. Green vases filled with white roses adorned the large U-shaped banquet table. The programs were folders which represented the white rose and opened to reveal the menu and the program. The nut cups were green and were used as combination nut cups and place cards, the names being written on them in white. The napkins were green and white.

The dining hall and the lobby were decorated with roses, peonies, deutzia and many other cut flowers.

Frank VanDyke, the president of the Junior class, acted as toastmaster for the occasion.

The first number on the program was the welcome address by Frank VanDyke. This was followed by the Response by the President of the Senior class, Frank Young.

The next number on the program was a toast to the Seniors by Stanley Lovett. After this came a toast to the Juniors by James Willeford and a toast to the Faculty by Harry Payne.

Bro. N. B. Hardeman then gave a talk, the subject of which was, "How to Select a Husband". After the talk by Bro. Hardeman, Bro. Ross Spears sang a solo entitled "When You Look in the Heart of a Rose".

Catherine Burrow gave a reading, "Our Seniors", in which every Senior was mentioned. Bro. Ross Spears (continued on page three)

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

Friday, May 22, 8:00 p. m. — Children's Program.

Sunday night, 8:00—Commencement Sermon.

Tuesday night, 8:00—Music and Glee Club Recital.

Wednesday morning, 9:30—Farewell Chapel Assembly.

Wednesday night, 8:00—Annual Play.

Thursday morning, 10:00—Graduation Exercises and Class Address.

The Children's program, on the night of the 22nd, starts off the commencement activities. It will consist of a most entertaining play, "The History of America," performances by the Kiddie Band, songs, and other numbers. Mrs. Foy's programs are always delightful and this evening is eagerly anticipated.

On Sunday night, Bro. N. B. Hardeman will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the Seniors, that August body appearing in cap and gown for the evening, Monday and Tuesday will be used for final examinations, but on Tuesday night is scheduled a miscellaneous recital of music, and Glee Club members and a short play, "How the Story Grew." On Wednesday morning the school and visitors will gather for the last Chapel assembly, which is always an enjoyable, if sad, occasion. Wednesday gets its chief distinction, however, from being Alumni Day, and will feature a reunion of old students, a big barbecue dinner, an Alumni meeting in the afternoon, an Alumni Supper for evening and the presentation of the Annual play, "Oh, What a Night!" The graduates will have their exercises and address on Thursday morning at 10:00. The program will include addresses by the valedictorian, George Johnson, the salutatorian, Faye Gibson, and the third honor student, James Willeford, and the class address, to be delivered by Bro. R. M. Alexander of Weewoka, Oklahoma.

HOW LIFE IS SPENT

Did you ever wonder how the average man spent his life? Placing the age of Mr. Average Man at 57 it is estimated that he puts in 18 years seven months sleeping; 15 years five months working; eight years going to church and at recreation; five years eating and drinking and at the same time traveling; three years of illness and two just dressing.

CITY DRUG STORE HONORS GRADUATES

A most delightful courtesy was tendered the graduating class on Thursday night, May 21, when the City Drug Store gave a Senior supper in their honor. The store was decorated with fresh flowers for the occasion and the class colors of green and white and the class flower, the white rose were used as the motif. The supper was served at tables of four, to the thirty-four graduates and the class sponsors. A most delicious menu of sandwiches, fruit punch, and banana splits was served. The whole school feels indebted and grateful for this courtesy which is but another indication of the good will and generosity of the Drug Store towards F. H. C. This business has always supported every Freed-Hardeman activity and the appreciation is mutual.

"COOPERATION"

"A chain is as strong as its weakest link."

How true and applicable this old adage is; and how well it might be used in bringing a beneficial lesson to our own Freed-Hardeman College. An appeal for cooperation; asking that each and every student realize the vast importance of making himself a strong, sturdy link, capable of doing his own part, and thereby encouraging others to do the same.

The Book of books contains an exhortation for cooperation, for from the mouth of Jesus himself came these words: "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand." (Matt. 12:25).

Approximately one thousand, eight hundred and thirty-five years later, Abe Lincoln voiced a similar sentiment when he said, "United, we stand; Divided, we fall."

Will we, as mere College students, defy the wisdom of the ages, backed by costly experience as it is, and try to establish some new 'anti-logical' system? Will we allow a lack of unity to destroy our rigid principle of "Ever a Winner"?

No, a thousand no's. Rather, we will draw our forces even closer together, we will strive to strengthen ourselves, as individuals, and then, with every link a strong, unbreakable one, we shall present our chain, a barrier to all that would hinder our progress as an A-1 organization.

—Robert Turner.

A WORD TO THE SENIORS

A few more days will mark the passing of another school year. Although many of us, especially Seniors, will be separated, we can remain united in the bonds of memory and friendship. We will all be alumni of F. H. C., and as such we can maintain that unity of purpose which characterizes all alumni. We can work as individuals and as a group to serve that institution which has served us for the past two years, and which will continue to serve us as long as we live in harmony with the principles for which it stands. So let us all resolve to be active alumni, and practice the teachings of our school by living a life pleasing to God and man.

THE CLOSE OF SCHOOL

We all know, but perhaps do not realize, just how near the time is for school to be over for the year 1935-36.

As we all prepare to go to our respective homes, we begin to think how dear to us the friends we have made here really are. Many will not be able to come back next year and it is probable that many of us will never meet again. In spite of all this, however, we should rejoice in the fact that we were able to form such friendships and perhaps the memory of them will help us over the rough places of life.

Mingled with the sad thoughts of leaving our friends should be the thoughts of meeting those at home. We should be glad in the thoughts of seeing again those who have sacrificed and worked so hard to enable us to attend Freed-Hardeman College.

At such times as these, we should begin, if we have not already decided, to plan our future life as far as possible. We must all provide a means for carrying on our individual lives.

The college students of today are the ones who are to carry on the affairs of the world when they shall have finished their school days. Therefore, we should consider the seriousness of such matters.

Many of the Juniors will be back next year. To them we are wishing a happy vacation. To the Seniors, who are not coming back, we wish the greatest happiness and success throughout life.

—E. C.

"THE TIME OF MY DEPARTURE IS COME"

By Victor H. Sellers

A few short days will see the dispersing of our pleasant school body. To some of the group it will be the final farewell to an institution that has been instrumental in the formation of their lives and the acquaintances of many friends. To others it will be but for a short vacation and then back to the joys that wait those who are fortunate enough to be able to attend such an institution.

Those who are bringing to a close their career at Freed-Hardeman College should have vision of three-fold nature; namely Retrospection, Introspection, and Prospection. When the Apostle Paul came to the end of his journey he spoke these never-to-be-forgotten words: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give to me that day; and not to me only, but also to all them that have loved his appearing". In this passage we can see how the Apostle Paul refreshed his mind with the accomplishments of the past; how he thought of the present; and then how he thought of the future.

We students should be able to view our past, think of the present, and think of the opportunities that have been ours.

We should be able to look back on our past, whether it be for one year or two, and feel proud that we have done the best we knew how. We should be able to say, "I have fought the good fight". For most of us it has been somewhat of a fight to obtain an education, especially during such a period of unrest. We should be glad that our parents were of such a disposition that they were willing to sacrifice that we might come to school, for indeed it has been a sacrifice for them. So then, fellow students of F. H. C., let us stop and give our parents and those who have helped us, a silent and heartfelt vote of appreciation. Let us live such lives as will be a remuneration to them. We should be able to look back on our past and rejoice that we have been able to associate with such a fine group of students, and have been able to be in classes with such able teachers. We have indeed much to be thankful for.

Parting days of any kind bring sadness as well as joy to the hearts of those who are leaving. During the past nine months friendships have been formed, some of which will live through the rest of our lives, and where is the person that can depart from such friendships without leaving a degree of sadness? Then on the other hand, though we will be sad to think of our leaving we will be glad because of what it will mean to us. To some it will mean the launching out upon a career. To others it will mean the continuation of a work already started, but such a one can return to his work with a greater degree of confidence, having better prepared himself. To all it will mean the association with loved ones again.

As the trains, buses and automobiles are carrying the students home, our parents and friends will be busily engaged in a preparation for our homecoming. What a joy that will be to see our old friends and to relate to them our wonderful experiences.

In the years to come we should be able to look back to the time when we were students at F. H. C. and with pride and deep appreciation review our old experiences. We should be able to appreciate the many opportunities that were ours to enjoy. As we have time again heard the remarks made by former students, that the happiest moments of their lives were spent in F. H. C., so we will be able to look back and say the same.

The greatest of all lessons that we will remember will be the spiritual lessons that we have received. These have come to us from various sources. Some have come from the chapel talks, others from the many Bible classes, while others have come from private talks with different members of the faculty, who ever seemed too busy to advise one on the best course to follow. We, the student body, should give to the members of the faculty our vote of thanks and should so live these principles in our lives that in the years to come, if we should by any chance meet one of the faculty, he could be able to say with no particular spirit of regret, that he used to teach us.

The words of the Apostle Paul should be the guiding principle of our future, namely: "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, hands aright the Word of Truth". If this principle is lived in our lives there should be no doubt as to the success of our future.

And the words of that old sweet song ring out, "God be with you 'til we meet again."

"VALE"

Graduation day, May 28, 1936, will be written in the history of Freed-Hardeman College as the close of another year's work. To some it will be the completion of a long-dreaded task, to others it will be but a cause for laying aside that which they have enjoyed and appreciated so much, but to all, and especially to those who have finished their education (so far as school days are concerned) it will be the traversing of territory, perhaps, yet unexplored.

Many of us now are counting the days, and soon the hours, but shortly we'll look back and gladly will we recall, if possible, the happy and profitable hours spent while here.

It is hoped that the Graduating Class of 1935-36 will be as moments, to perpetuate the memory of Freed-Hardeman College; as lights, to cause its influence to continue to spread; as leaders, to continue to show forth to the world its good training.

To our predecessors we're indebted for the environment that molds our characters. To our successors we're indebted and duty bound to lend every assistance, that they likewise may enjoy the same good environment, and even better, if possible.

We should resolve at the outset to add something to society, and should we fail to do this, we become a burden to society rather than a blessing, and it would have been better for humanity had we never had being. It may be that our fathers have been so successful in the business affairs of earth as to place us beyond the necessity of toiling either with hand or brain. But that fact does not release us from performing our part in the battle of life.

With most of us, toil of brain or hand will be a necessity in order to secure the comforts of life. The majority of us may never get beyond that condition. Our sphere of activity will depend largely upon birth, education, opportunities, and attitudes. Some of us will follow in the footsteps of those with whom we've been most closely associated.

Too many of us waste too much time in seeking superior fields or waiting for more splendid opportunities. We like to begin at the top of the ladder. Many times the thing that lies the nearest at hand is but the door opening to larger and richer fields. Begin at the bottom. If we have power it will show itself. It we're worthy of better things they'll have to come to us.

Some one has said in teaching of Science and Religion that it matters not so much whence we came but whither we are going. In the affairs of this life the same is true. If from the loneliest cabin in the forest or from the Palace wherein the King resides; if from the home of a "Lazarus" or from that of a "rich man"; from the home of the bootlegger or from the home of the good church member; these things count but little—but whither are we going?

Alvin C. York came from the Mountains of East Tennessee. Today he has heaped upon him the praises of the American people for those things which he accomplished. There is a place for all if we are made of the right metal. It may not be possible to make the most of ourselves and of our opportunities, and to this endeavor and attainment let us set our hearts and hands.

We now set sail on the great Ship of Life. Even though the lightning flash, the thunders roll, and the waves beat hard against that Ship, if we but race the storm with courage, keenness of judgment, and a sense of responsibility, after a while when the winds cease they will have blown in such a direction as to have carried us safely to the other shore.

FACULTY MEMBERS SPEAK TO PREACHER'S CLUB

The past several weeks have been exceptionally interesting for the members of the Preacher's Club, which has changed its programs from debating to instructive and inspirational talks from members of the faculty. Bro. L. L. Brigance and Bro. W. C. Hall gave the club some much-needed and appreciated instruction on the proper manner of conducting funerals and marriage ceremonies. We wish to express again our heartfelt appreciation of the interest our faculty manifests in our activities.

Only recently, Bro. Endsley, our science teacher, favored the young preachers with a very interesting and instructive lecture on matters currently affecting the social life and welfare of the youth, as well as older people, of the modern age. Personal matters with respect to the work and experiences of men in the public ministry of the Gospel were also thoroughly discussed in a round-table manner.

The Preachers' Club lately sponsored a rather new combination of outing and study. The Club planned a picnic, or rather a weiner roast, for the afternoon on an appointed day—and before the picnic, all went to the creek and practiced, on each other, the art of gracefully and safely baptizing candidates for baptism. The boys had a good time in both work and play—and needless to say all were hungry enough to enjoy the hot-dogs, pickles, lemonade, and other good things at the late afternoon meal.

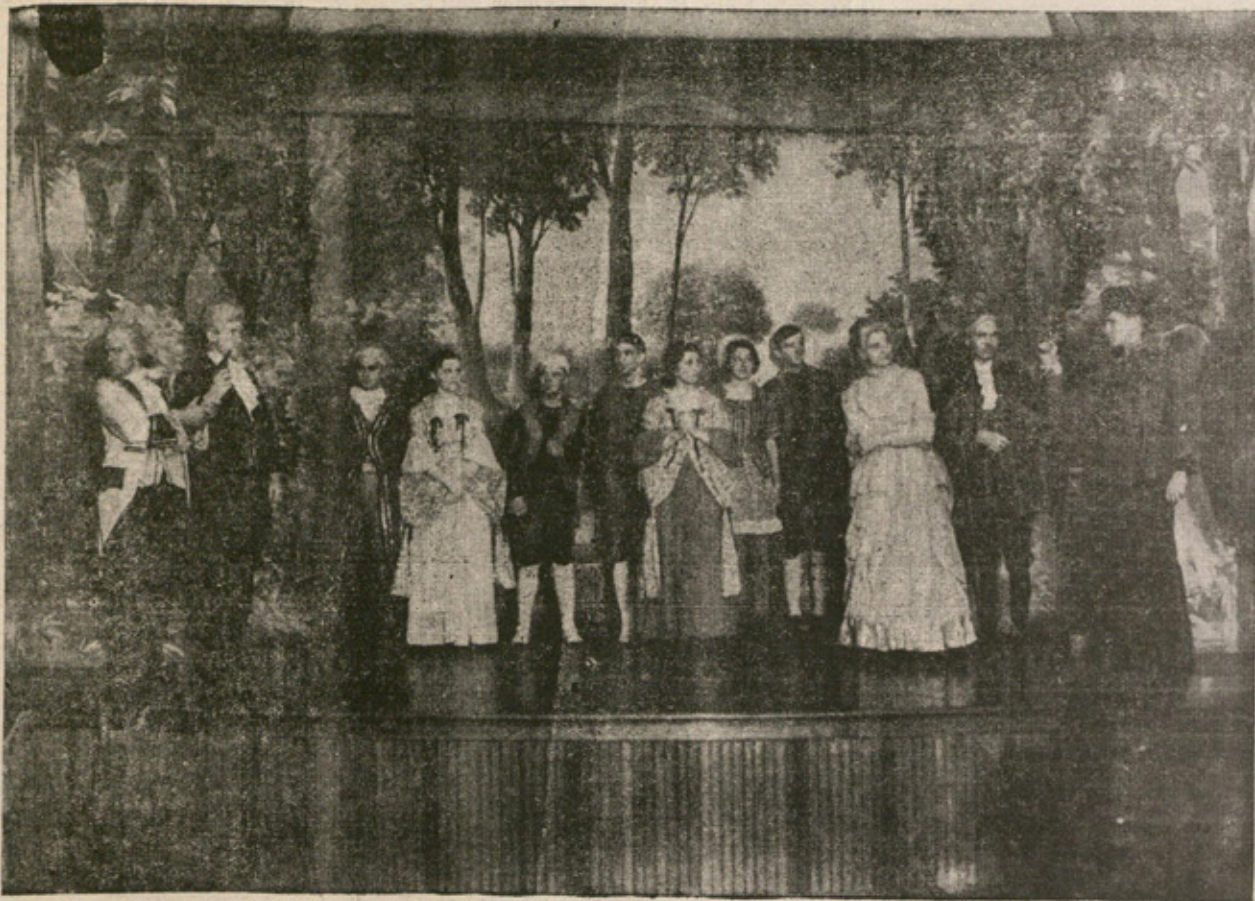

N. Y. A. CAST IN "THE RIVALS"

"The Rivals", Richard Brinsley Sheridan's Masterpiece, was presented to an appreciative audience on the night of April 28th in F. H. C. auditorium. The cast was composed almost entirely of students being aided by the National Youth Administration and was in line with the projects and activities suggested by the N. Y. A.

The costumes, which were professional outfits leased for the occasion, added great brilliance to the splendid acting of the players. Katherine Burrow, as Mrs. Malaprop was unforgettable, and was ably supported by the following players:

Everette Fields, as Sir Anthony Absolute.
Stansell Vernon, as Captain Jack Absolute.
Avis Creasy, as Lydia Languish.
Sam Ringold, as Bob Acres.
Rolgie Yopp, as Julia Melville.
Fred Dukes, as Faulkland.
Clyde Johnson, as Sir Lucius O'-Trigger.
Vivian Pharr, as Lucy.
Darwyn Stovall, as David.
Thomas Scott, as Fag.
C. W. Scott, as Thomas.

and Mrs. W. B. Powers then sang a duet entitled "When the Dew is on the Rose".

The last number on the program was a song to the Seniors by the Juniors. The song was written to the melody of "Lights Out".

The menu consisted of fruit cocktail for the first course. The second course consisted of chicken a la king, asparagus, new potatoes, English peas, glazed apples, hot rolls, butter and coffee. The last course was green and white ice cream.

In his talk the toastmaster carried out the idea of a flower garden representing the college. The Faculty were the roots and stems, the Juniors the buds, and the Seniors the full bloom rose.

The occasion was a very pleasant one and was enjoyed by all.

TRAVEL

By Mack Roland

I'd love to roam the whole world o'er
And hear the mighty lion roar,
I'd love to go to Africa
So far from sweet America.

I'd love to see an Eskimo,
To play in the land of ice and snow
And make an igloo out of ice,
The Eskimo would think it nice.

I'd love to go and visit Gaul,
Where all the men are very tall,
Where silkworms eat the mulberry leaves,
That grow upon the mulberry trees.

THE KITE

Spring creeps silently and slow,
Winter's ice and frost may go,
Welcome it with keen delight,
God made it a wondrous sight.

On thru spring we gladly go,
Soon forget the winter's snow,
List' to the birds sing their sweet songs,
Echo sweet melody all the day long.

the society has not been so great in several years.

With the registration of the six weeks teachers the competition between the Sigma Rhos and Philomatheons has been greatly livened, each society striving for more new members. On Thursday, May 7, the Philomatheons presented in chapel a program dedicated to "Mother". The program, consisting of songs and a playlet, brought tears to many eyes.

Plans are being made for an outing Thursday, May 21, as a farewell party.

It is hoped by those members who are finishing their course here this year that the work of the Philomatheons may be carried on in the future to the extent that the society may grow and continue from year to year, offering the same enjoyment and opportunities that it always has in the past.

"PALS"

Let trouble come,
And tear-drop moisten your eyes;
Let hope grow pale
And feeble be our cries;
'Tis then:—
When all, it seems,
Is lost, and skies are dark;
The sun will shine,
And through the storm, an Ark
Will sail—A Pal.

A light to guide
Our thoughts and better yet,
A hand to lead
Us on, 'till we forget
The past;
And in its stead
The soft melodious strain
Of love, enchants
The lives of those of us who reign
As Pals—Just Pals.

Key-Hole Gossip

Three rousing cheers and a hip-hurrah. Now, that that is over you can drop your heads and shed a tear or two for it will be only a short while and the 1935-36 days of F. H. C. will be over. And far be it from me to let this last opportunity pass without making a 'pass' or two at some of the "ED'S" and "COED'S" of the campus.

Speaking of co-eds, perhaps we should mention—

Mary had a little lamb,
With her it used to frolic;
It licked her in the face one day
And died of painter's colic.

Vivian likes these back-stage scenes, and if you should ask her for a description of her ideal 'hero'—some nice stiff whiskers, a slow halting speech, and—oops! there comes Mrs. Powers.

Annie Pearl didn't shoot her man, 'cause he "Dunn" her all right.

I hear that John Jumper is a planning to go to Miss. State—if Coach Stewart doesn't convince him he couldn't pass a third grade test.

N. R. A.—C. W. A.—T. V. A. or anything connected with Roosevelt. Just ask Mildred Fields. (Lulu to you big boy!)

Phifer is campused, he's off, he's on again, he's off, he's on—Oh, well, who knows what, when, why, and what difference does it make anyhow.

After the spelling test: Todd; How many "z's" in 'raisin'? Carmichael: One, I think. Todd: Guess I missed it then. I thought there were two.

Jumper "walked'er" home after the play. She was a blonde too.

Bro. Hardeman gets it this time. The favorite passage which he quotes so often is found in 1 Cor. 14:40 and not 14:30 as he declared one morning in chapel.

Just as Paul crossed the Texas line, a tall manly figure walked in the front door of Oakland Home and asked for Betsy, My! My!

And Brooksie thought that 'combustion' meant to 'pop'. ('bust')

At last we find out a few things about Frank Young. Her name is Louise Thornton, folks, the fairest damsel to be found in the city of Nashville. No doubt, this is why Frank was a bit slow about falling for the 'Rose of Sharon'.

Ken has the mumps. No, not right now but maybe he will feel swell by the time this is published. And it sure is funny how he would be the one to catch them with Mary Alice. They are never seen together. (Except the afternoon that Bro. Brigance drove around back of the Ad. building about 5 minutes after supper was over.)

Miss Tata, Mary Alice's Nurse, turns in her order for breakfast every morning. Bacon and eggs, toast, jelly and hot coffee; Oh, yes, a glass of milk too. And Mary Alice remarked that she sure was tired of having nothing but a glass of milk for breakfast every morning. P. S. "Lost 'in-transit'".

Will someone please explain to Thompson that the object of a 'pink' verb is in the objective case. Yes, Blossom had the mumps once. No, it didn't 'settle' under her chin, that is a newly installed filter system.

Who was the guy who said, "I'm tired of eating potatoes."?

Can you figure out the two couples who were a bit 'swapped' at our recent banquet.

Wall! Wall! He finally made up his mind (or increased his courage) to the point of asking her for a date. And did she Lovett?

If you don't believe that a fast ride over the hills and across crooked country roads will make one sick, just ask Beck and Nell.

Crys, did your watch stop again on the night of the banquet?

What brother took his sister to the banquet? (quotation marks where necessary).

Verbenaceous, verdantique, tularaemi, frangipani, frankalomin, and such like. Just a sample of heaven for Bro. Hall. P. S. Perhaps you had better carry along a new pencil too.

I thought white folks were supposed to be smarter than individuals connected directly with the colored sect. At least that is what Editor-in-Chief says, as he asked the wash-woman to do his Trig. for him.

Don Hamilton is the new F. H. C. "service" man. Check your oil, wipe your windshield, or what have you.

But everything must come to a close, and the "Key-Hole Gossip" is no exception to the rule. Happy Landing and a pleasant and enjoyable vacation. Maybe we will meet 'on the road to Calif'.
