Woodson Announces Leaving; To Head DLC Grad Program

By Van McCoy

Hardworking, dedicated, concerned, and sincere: these are all attributes of William Woodson. He has faithfully served Freed-Hardeman College as a teacher, Bible department chairman, and lectureship director. He shows a genuine concern for all his students. He is sincere in his decision to leave Freed-Hardeman.

After 23 years of dedicated service at Freed-Hardeman, William Woodson has announced that he will go to David Lipscomb College. One of his main duties there will be to chair a committee to establish a graduate program in Bible. This will be an accredited one-year M.A. program with emphasis in Biblical teaching, preaching, and mission work.

"This is a great opportunity to help the kingdom of God and the cause of Christ. I will continue to work for the same cause, just at a different part of the vineyard," says Woodson. "The privilege to help start this program is a dream come true—a once in a lifetime opportunity," he adds.

Woodson first came to F-HC in 1951 as a student. He received his B.A. from Union University in 1957 and completed his M.A. at Harding Graduate School of Religion.

Woodson joined the F-HC faculty in 1959. He became chairman of the Bible department in 1971 after receiving his M.Th. at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He has also been the Lectureship Director since 1972.

'Iceberg' Tops Entertainment Billing For Spring Semester

By Paul Nash and Barry Edwards

The beginning of a new semester again faces us, raising the age old question, "What is there to do at Freed-Hardeman?" Well, don't worry because this semester's entertainment schedule looks very promising.

The first major concert of the semester will be Michael Iceberg, an entertainer from Walt Disney World. On February 2, at 8 PM, this keyboardist extraordinaire will reveal his creation "The Iceberg Machine." Using synthesizers, a piano, a drum computer, and a myriad of special effects, Iceberg and His Machine will combine to guarantee an evening of true entertainment.

Gano Dining Hall will be the site as F-HC relives the Fifties with the Cruisers, a group composed of members of the Homewood congregation in Birmingham, AL. Accompanied by the "Dream Girls," the Cruisers will play at 8 PM this Saturday night. The Freshman and Sophomore Classes are sponsoring the concert, awarding a cash prize to the person with the best Fifties costume.

"Chanter" will be in concert Friday at 8 PM. Details of a benefit concert planned by Alpha Psi, featuring the New Dimension Quartet and Phoenix, have not yet been released.

The Department of Communication has an outstanding theatre season planned. "Dark Victory," directed by James Radford and Dana Eubanks, is a play which has been dedicated to Joy McDaniel. The story is of a young doctor who falls in love with his dying patient, the cast includes Frank Bell as the postman, Ray Eaton as Bill Ewing, and Kim Hayes as Josey. The department will also produce a satire by Moliere entitled "The Would-Be Gentleman," directed by Robert King. An original mime show called "Brothers," presented by James Radford and Don Kimbrell, is a treat that should not be missed. Originally planned for December, it was postponed until this semester.

Buonomo, Dixon Grab First In "Battle of the Dorms"

By Gail Nash

In view of the snowy weather received on January 12, it is hard to imagine that anyone would raise money to buy ice on that same day. However, this is precisely what the New Dormitory for Women did when it sponsored the "Battle of the Dorms." The $125 raised was added to a fund for purchasing an ice machine.

Sixteen acts participated in the talent show which was held in Old Chapel Hall. Competition was divided into two groups: individual talent, and entries representing a dormitory. In the dorm division, Dixon Hall received first prize: Paula Buonomo represented Dixon, singing and accompanying herself on the guitar. Dixon was given a plaque to keep until next year's winners are announced. Benson Hall's entry, a musical group called "The New Thing" won second place. The group is composed of Kevin Moore, Eddie Carter and Tony Parnell. Cameron Traw, playing the guitar and singing for Farrow Hall took third place. In individual entries, Karen Glisson, acting out the story "Horton Hatches an Egg," won the $20 first prize. Stan

Tenpenny, on the harmonica and guitar, received second place and $10, and singer/pianist Wayne Lewis was awarded $5 for third place.

Hosting the event as "Mr. and Mrs. MC" were Kyle Wadley and Michelle Goss ett.

"Considering the weather, I was pleased with the outcome," said New Women's supervisor Margie Allen. Mrs. Allen said that "Battle of the Dorms" would become an annual event.

Twenty-Eight Named to F-HC's 'Who's Who Among US Colleges'

By Lynn Heffington

Twenty-eight Seniors at Freed-Hardeman College will be listed in this year's edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Since 1934 the organization has honored students who have excelled in scholarship and campus leadership by publishing a directory every year.

These students represent Freed-Hardeman as a part of the distinguished group chosen from more than thirteen hundred institutions of higher learning, located in all fifty states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations.

F-HC students named this year are the following: Linda Lucille Bell, a Fashion Merchandising major from Linden, TN; Lori Chandler, an English and Speech Major from Fulton, MS; Terry Tomlin Collins, a Bible major and Biblical languages minor from Enville, TN; William Lance Cordle, a Bible major from Florence, AL; Vickie Lynn

Next Week...

A look at F-HC's Art Department—all two of them—and our new chapel policy versus other Christian Colleges.

Editorial: It's Hard To Say Goodbye

By Lawrence Gunnells, Editor-in-chief

No matter what the reason, when a member of the family leaves, it is always a sad occasion. This week we say goodbye to two. Both have chosen a better life.

When William Woodson leaves to chair the Lipscomb graduate program in June, he will leave behind him a strong Bible department--the very foundation of Freed-Hardeman College. He does not forsake his "family"--on the contrary. He leaves as a shining example of what Freed-Hardeman seeks to "turn out"--strong workers for the Lord.

He will be missed, but admired for his convictions.

We lost Joy McDaniel to cancer. But not without a gallant fight.

She was described by one as "the best teacher--in every sense of the word 'teacher'--that Freed-Hardeman ever had." She was loved and admired by many. She leaves behind a husband and a family; we will always see a little "joy" in them.

To group these two teachers together is not to say that William Woodson's leaving is like death...or that Joy McDaniel's death is like moving to another school.

Grouping these two together is to say that our will for them is not important--God has a will for each one of us. We cannot alter it; we accept it.

We can thank God that people like Dr. Woodson and Joy have come our way for a time...and we have the benefit of their love and influence for life.

Student Majority Praised

Dear Editor:

Since we often hear about what is wrong with F-HC and its students, I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the students who helped to make the statistics given below.

On a typical day at F-HC, our students were performing in a commendable way. According to the offices of the Registrar and the Dean of Students,

99.9% were not dismissed from school
99.9% were not put on probation
99.9% did not damage their dorm rooms
99.9% were in their rooms at room check

98.5% were in their chapel seats on time
99.9% were not campused
99.9% did not steal anything from anybody
99.9% were not written up
95% did not see the Dean
1,120 did not make a grade of F
96% did not violate the hair or dress code
98% did not excessively kiss outside the dorm
99.9% did not have a flat tire at 11:56 PM
93% (male and female) were not dipping Skoal

Sincerely,
Joy McDaniel

Other than some changes caused by the tremendous growth of F-HC, Woodson says that the school and Bible department are basically the same as when he came. "They both still hold the same principles, goals, and guidelines that they have always held," says Woodson.

"I am just one of the many people who have come and gone from F-HC," explains Woodson. "I see my leaving as no crisis. There are many qualified men and women here at F-HC, and things will go on just as always. As far as a replacement goes, the people to decide that are the same people that have always made good decisions around here," he adds.

Woodson thinks that F-HC's greatest quality is its commitment to Biblical truth and quality education. "This is how it should be," he states. He says it will be difficult to leave though, because all of his roots are here. He has lived here almost all of his adult life and has strong ties with many people here.

It is obvious that Woodson will show the same dedication at David Lipscomb College that he has shown here for so many years. When asked how long he intends to stay at Lipscomb, he replied, "I plan to go to stay."

Lions Among Statistical Leaders in VSAC, District

By Kip Gunnells, Sports Editor

According to the VSAC/District 24 basketball report released January 18, Freed-Hardeman has been doing very well statistically in some areas this far into the season. The Lions are ranked sixth in scoring offense, averaging 78.30 points a game. They are also ranked very high in the team free-throw percentages being fourth on the current standings. Defensively, the ball club is ranked 14th in team-scoring defense and 10th in field goal percentages. Both of these rankings fall below more than half of the other teams in the district.

Individually, the report shows several F-HC players to be performing well. Randall Avery is fifth in free-throw percentage, shooting 83.90 percent. The big story, however, for F-HC fans is the sophomore from Detroit, Garrett Grills. Grills was given an honorable mention for Player of the Week by the report for his outstanding play. He is presently ranked third in the district in scoring, averaging about 21 points per game. He is also pulling down an average of 9 rebounds a game which puts him eighth in the standing. Tony Woodall is also ranked in the top ten rebounders with an 8.75 average per game.

Freed-Hardeman presently is listed eighth overall in District 24 standings. A complete rundown of all VSAC/District 24 teams will be listed in this section with their standings in the district and their overall records.

Since the Spring semester has started, the men have played four games, coming away with a 2-2 record. The first two wins came against Lambuth College of Jackson, TN and Alabama Christian College out of Montgomery. The two losses came in a heartbreaking loss to David Lipscomb before a packed gymnasium here, and an equally exciting loss to Belmont. The Lions will be home tonight hosting Christian Brothers. The women's game will begin at 6:00 p.m. and the men's game will be played at 8:00 p.m.

McDaniel Succumbs (from cover)

Other than college teaching, she had taught for five years in public schools in Milton, FL, Judsonia and Beebe, AR, and in Escombria Christian School, Pensacola, FL. Music and elementary education were her major areas of interest.

She was graduated from Chipley (FL) High School, 1958; Freed-Hardeman College, A.A., 1960; Harding College, B.A., 1962; and Harding College, M.A.T., 1968.

She was elected to membership of Alpha Delta Kappa, an international honorary society for women educators, and Alpha Psi Omega, a national dramatics honorary society. Her name has been listed in two volumes of Outstanding Young Women of America.

She was an officer of the local chapter of the International Reading Association and the Association of Childhood Education International.

Her community involvement included the La Leche League and Girl Scouts. She was association chairman for the Girl Scouts, coordinating scouting activities throughout West Tennessee. During the years she had lived in Henderson, she had been active in every phase of Girl Scouting. Her work was commended recently by the Reelfoot Council, the governing body for Girl Scouts in West Tennessee.

She was a Bible class teacher at the Henderson Church of Christ. Since her teenage years, she had helped teach in Bible summer camps.

She is survived by her husband, Henry A. McDaniel, Jr.; a daughter, Kell Lee; two sons, Henry A. McDaniel, III, and Kenneth Barrett; her mother, Mrs. Anabell Simon, tutoring coordinator at F-HC; a sister, Mrs. David Ellis, of Milton, FL; and two brothers, John Paul Simon of Memphis, and William B. Simon of Milton, FL.

A scholarship fund has been established in her memory at the college.

Tribute to Joy (from cover)

Joy gave us friendship. Pomposity and arrogance angered her. Human needs moved her, and she befriended the disadvantaged as well as the wealthy. She shared her money, her home, her time, her ideas--herself. She was our friend.

Her death reminds us of the necessity of a day well used, a life well lived. We will remember the courage she showed us, the lessons she taught us, the kindness she gave us.

We celebrate her life.

The Battle Ends--

McDaniel Succumbs To Cancer War

By Arnelle Adcock

Joy McDaniel

The Story

Joy Jeanette Simon McDaniel died at 4:45 Sunday morning in Jackson-Madison County General Hospital after a month's hospitalization. In July, 1979, she underwent surgery for cancer of the colon. She remained active through the completion of her teaching responsibilities for the fall semester 1981.

Funeral services were conducted at the Henderson Church of Christ, 10:00 Tuesday morning. Dowell Platt spoke, and Max Patterson, minister of the Henderson church, F-HC President E. Claude Gardner, and F-HC Vice-President David Thomas assisted. Interment was in the Chester County Memory Gardens.

Except for a two year-period of graduate study at Florida State University, she has taught at Freed-Hardeman College since 1969. She was an early childhood education specialist whose duties ranged from teaching strategies courses to supervising student teachers.

This week we celebrate a life of joy. Joy's life. Cancer, a temporary victor over her body, never captured her will, her courage, her spirit. Joy McDaniel lives with the God she served.

We grieve for her family and for ourselves. We are lesser because of her absence.

But because we knew her, we are better, nobler, more. We celebrate her life, her gifts to us.

Joy demonstrated a pioneer spirit and an unswerving faith. She transformed problems and setbacks into opportunities and challenges. Not even cancer could cause her to complain. Her final tears were not for herself, rather they were for her family and her friends. She lived and died believing she was to take what life gave her and use it.

Joy showed us family commitment. She loved her family--her mother, her husband, her children. She went the second mile to fulfill their wishes. Early childhood education was not lessons to be taught so much as concepts to be lived. She showed us how to enjoy our children--to play, to laugh, to sing. Always on the run, she was never too busy to do the important things.

Joy gave us enthusiasm for learning. She loved to teach; she loved her students. In her files is a card for every student she taught with the student's home address, courses she taught that student, and grades the student earned. Consistently, alumni praise her for the preparation she gave them for effective classroom teaching. Her college students learned from her, her Girl Scouts learned from her, her Bible class students and campers learned from her. She was an exemplar.
