

The Bell Tower

Vol. 1 No. 6

Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tennessee

October 8, 1981

Relief Fund Sent to Aid Christians Starving In Poland

"Great co-operation and a wonderful spirit of unity" are the words Norman Hogan used to describe Friday's "Skip-a-Meal" Program.

According to Hogan, $3,341.09 was contributed by persons connected with Freed-Hardeman for the cause of starving Polish Christians. The John Hill Food Service was responsible for $845 of this amount, due to the willingness of over 1,000 students to skip their noon meal. Other contributions came from the faculty, social clubs, non-boarding students, maintenance workers, dorm supervisors, and other employees of the school.

A special contribution by the Estes Church of Christ brought $2,935. The congregations of Henderson and Refuge added $2,000 and $250, respectively. These amounts were included in the total sum sent to the 6th and Izard congregation of $8,476.09.

"There have been many contributions made by Christians all over the country," said Hogan. "The current need has been met and food is in the process of entering Poland."

A special devotional, with the Polish brethren in mind, was held in front of Loden-Daniel Library during the lunch hours on Friday.

"I told Robert (King) that we couldn't do it, but I was wrong," said Jim Selbe while making announcements at the devotional.

Selbe, who worked to instigate Robert King's idea of Skip-a-Meal, told students that both the Tennessee Radio Network and United Press International had picked up the story.

Selbe also reminded the audience that the work was not over yet.

"Not only will food be sent for this winter, but plans are being made to stockpile for next winter. Continue to pray that if the food goes in, it will remain in their (the Polish Christians) hands," said Selbe.

Total being sent today $8,921.18
From the following:

College Community $1,915.49
(From skip-a-meal, social clubs, dormitories, individual gifts by administrators, faculty, staff, students. Jim Selbe has records on all of these.)

Area Churches

Refuge Church $250.00
Humbolt Church $1,399.69
(amount exceeding budget on Oct. 4)
Henderson Church $2,000.00
Estes Church $3,416.00
Brush Creek Church $155.00
College Girls Class
Smith St., So. Fulton $50.00
Plus More $32.00

CampusCalendar

Oct. 8 Professional Clubs, 6:30 p.m.
Oct. 8,9 Henderson Church of Christ Meeting;
Danny Cottrell, speaker
Oct. 8-10 Junior-Senior Weekend
Oct. 10 Freshmen Picnic, 4:00 p.m.
Oct. 13 Totalife, 6:30 p.m.
Preachers' Club, 6:30 p.m.
Preachers' Wives Dinner, 6:30 p.m.

Weekend Provides Junior/Senior Opportunity

When a new event emerges on campus, it is bound to be an event worth examining. Such is the case with the Junior-Senior Weekend that begins today.

The purpose of the Weekend is to provide an indepth look at Freed-Hardeman from the standpoint of the admissions process, financial aid, and student life. About one-hundred high school students will visit the campus to get a glimpse of college life, take tours of the campus, and attend admissions and financial aid information clinics.

Several events have been scheduled to help the college and high school student mingle. Thursday's

Southern Heat

"Almost Anything Goes" will be presented by the Student Alumni Association and will be set up by social clubs. Friday, Phoenix will be joined in a concert by Southern Heat, a group which performed on campus last year. All of the members of "Southern Heat," now at Mar's Hill Bible School in Florence, Alabama, plan to attend Freed-Hardeman next year. Therefore, Friday night will serve as a sneak preview of musical talent for next year.

Ad Hoc Committee Meets

An ad hoc committee, appointed by the Board of Trustees, met Friday in an open hearing to discuss any problems connected with Freed-Hardeman.

The committee, composed of members of the Board itself, listened to 16 faculty members, four married students, and one boarding student during the course of the day.

According to Robert Witt, a recent appointee to the Board and a member of the committee, the purpose of the committee was "to learn of anything that needed to be straightened out or that needed investigating." Other members of the group were Ben Holladay, chairman, Huntingdon, TN; Don Shackleford, Bolivar, TN; James Butts, Fulton, MS; James Dedmon, Milan, TN; Elvis Huffard, Florence, AL; and Woody Loden, Batesville, MS. Witt is from Henderson.

Witt commented that there were some items discussed that were "general campus knowledge, but that some things came as a surprise to the committee, which Witt said "indicated we were somewhat out of touch with campus goings-on."

Witt did not say if, or when, the committee would meet again, but expressed pleasure over the success of the first meeting.

MM Logo Winner Announced

Charleton "Chucho" Wiggins was named Friday as the winner in the Makin' Music Logo Contest.

Wiggins, a sophomore art major from Chesapeake, VA, was one of approximately 25 people to enter the contest. Elmo Robison, a co-chairman for Makin' Music said there were about 30 logos entered, indicating few people entered more than one.

When the announcement was made in chapel Friday, Wiggins was shocked. "I could hardly move," he said in a recent interview. "Everyone thought I had skipped chapel, but what really happened was I didn't fully realize what had taken place before it was too late."

Wiggins, who began working on the final product about 3 PM the day before, said he had several things in mind in his design. "I wanted to incorporate the theme, celebration, as best I could," He explained. "I visualized how the logo would look on a T-shirt. That was my primary consideration."

When asked if this had any effect on his attitude about Makin' Music, Wiggins said he would have been just as excited had he not won.

Wiggins' only disappointment was that "several friends didn't enter because they thought they couldn't beat Algene (Steele)." Unfortunately for those people, Steele was not even qualified to enter since he is no longer a student; only F-HC students qualify.

What is Wiggins doing with his winnings? "I'm going straight to the bank and open a savings account...I've been meaning to do it for a long time."

No doubt the memory of winning the Makin' Music Logo Contest will be cherished and saved by Chucho Wiggins for a long time.

Editorial:

Freed-Hardeman College requires a student to attend chapel everyday to provide him an opportunity for "spiritual growth." For several students, however, another type of growth is necessary before chapel can affect spiritual growth.

When the associate dean of students has to sit in the balcony to make sure "college" students behave themselves in a service of worship and praise to God, we need to re-evaluate our maturity, both spiritual and mental.

Our parents send us to school with confidence that they have done an adequate job of teaching us. They hope we have proper respect for God, for our elders, for each other. They have no reason to believe someone else should have to take responsibility for being "Daddy" to their now young adult son or daughter.

A student has no right to complain about the present "watch dog" policy if he persists in behaving like a child. Children belong at home with Mom and Dad. Unfortunately, some "children" here may not come to that realization until they are at home again.

Some students, particularly upperclassmen, believe chapel programs could sometimes be more interesting. Suggestions for programs would likely be welcomed by the President.

However, even that does not justify disrespect for the person or persons responsible for a program.

Respect is something all "respectable" persons deserve.

As I See It

By Lawrence Gunnells, Editor

Paying Our Way

One of our biggest concerns as a fledgling staff was financing our ambitious tabloid. In other words, we were worried to death about where we were going to find the bucks to do this paper. And, believe me, when we started talking "weekly," the staff wasn't the only group concerned.

Alas, we aspiring professionals always seem to produce. (I fully expect a few letters-to-the-editor on that statement.) With our team of ad salesmen, composed of Dean Duke, Dean Duke, and Dean Duke (I think you get the picture), we set out to "pay our own way," and, thanks to Dean and some very important contacts, we are not far from our goal.

We must thank Pepsi Cola and Coke, for they expressed immediate confidence in us by making year-long commitments. And that sure helps when you're planning from week-to-week.

Logos About Logos

We were aptly prepared to see an excellent symbol for a totally excellent show, and we weren't at all surprised.

Charles "Chucho" Wiggins is as talented as they come. And when we don those Makin' Music '82 T-shirts in the spring, there won't be a single person at F-HC who isn't proud to display that logo.

Look For Four

The next few weeks will be filled with four-page papers, which isn't necessarily due to the lack of relevance and timely news.

No, not at all.

We will, however, be preparing for the "big month" of November.

Plus we want to do our best. Doing four pages will give us time to work the kinks out, so we can be "a newspaper of which you can be proud."

No less.

Serial-- Continued from Sept. 24 Issue--

The Adventures of Carter Monroe

By John Jordan

That's when the man in the dark suit entered the picture. At first I didn't notice him. He took me by surprise when he spoke.

"I perceive that you are looking for a redhead," he said, his eyes piercing me.

"Yes, that's right. How did you know?" I stammered.

"From your nonverbal cues I understand you to be nervous and somewhat apprehensive, even desperate. Am I right?"

(Either this guy is in communication, or I'm on Candid Camera, or both.)

"Yes, she is tall, very beautiful, and carries a tape recorder," I answered, steadying my voice.

"Let me see if I understand what you're saying," he continued. "You are looking for a very lovely young lady with red hair, who is quite tall, and who is carrying some sort of magnetic tape recording device. Am I understanding your meaning correctly?"

"Yes. Have you seen her?" (I was hysterical by now.)

"From your actions once again I perceive you have a deep feeling for this girl. Am I correct in this interpretation?"

"Yes," I screamed. (If he says perceive one more time, I'll choke him.)

"Oh! In that case she went up those stairs a minute ago." He turned and walked away.

This was not the last I would see of the man in the dark suit.

I started up the creaky outside stairs of the old building just as darkness fell. At the top there was only pitch blackness. But, yes, just a glimpse of movement. I rushed up the stairs into the dark entrance.

Will the redhead be at the top of the stairs? What will the man in the dark suit perceive next? Will Carter take that blonde to the movies Friday night? Read the next edition of The Bell Tower.

Grad Finds Art Is Fun, Cartoons Are Cash

In 1975, Mary Selfridge found herself in the same position as most art majors: holding a hard-earned degree that lead to precious-few job opportunities. So Mary Selfridge did what a lot of art majors do: she turned to teaching.

But she was frustrated with teaching by 1977, and decided to give commercial art a try. Yet when she got work in Chicago, Mary discovered commercial art was not as glamorous as she had imagined.

Once again, Mary was in a job that used little of her artistic talent.

In 1979, while working for a graphic design company, Mary doodled with cartoons in her spare time. She toyed with greeting cards that featured her cartoon characters. As a lark, she sent the cards to family and friends.

They loved them, and encouraged Mary to develop a cartoon strip. The result was "Penny Lane."

The focal point of the strip is Soloman, a talking bird whose wisecracks, humorous observations and comments provide a bird's-eye view of daily situations. Frank is a humorous "everyday" guy to whom everyone can relate. Sally and Seymour, two kids who live in the cartoon neighborhood, also contribute to the strip.

In 1980 two of Mary's biggest fans—brother and sister-in-law Rick and Cris Selfridge—decided to pool their abilities as attorneys with Mary's talents as a cartoonist. They formed Moonridge Productions, Inc. to spread the word about "Penny Lane."

Now Moonridge distributes greeting cards featuring the "Penny Lane" characters throughout the Midwest. They'll be available nationally by year's end.

Moonridge has also syndicated the "Penny Lane" strip to college and other newspapers. Several companies are even negotiating to use Mary's characters as stuffed dolls and on mugs and t-shirts.

CampusClips

TENNESSEE LEGISLATIVE INTERNSHIP PROGRAM: Juniors and seniors majoring in pre-law, political science, history, administration, social work, economics, sociology, journalism, and related fields are eligible to be interns for the 1982 legislative session. Academic credit is awarded along with monthly stipends and travel reimbursement. Please see the official faculty representative, John Hollingsworth, for more information concerning duties and other requirements. The deadline for application is October 14.

The Freshman Class will have a bake sale in the Student Center today and tomorrow. Also, they will have a picnic starting at 4:00 Saturday in Chickasaw Park.

The F-HC Bell Tower is the official student newspaper of Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tennessee 38340 and is published under the direction of the Department of Languages and Literature and with technical assistance from the Office of Public Information.

Letters to the editor are welcomed. They must be signed, and they must discuss policies and events rather than personalities. Send your correspondence to Editor of the Bell Tower, Box 292, Campus Mail.

Editor-in-chief Lawrence Gunnells
Assistant Editors .. Amy Elam, Lynn Hayes
Business Manager Connie Chunn
Advertising Director Dean Duke
Adviser Arnette Adcock

'New Dimension' Adds Variety

By Melissa Epps

Tomorrow in chapel, students will hear for the first time this year the New Dimension Quartet sponsored by the office of Institutional Advancement and Planning. The quartet adds to the wide variety of musical groups on campus.

The group consists of David Dobson, a senior from Martin, singing lead; Alan Bush, a junior from Waverly, singing bass; Randy Barker, a sophomore from Jasper, Alabama, singing tenor; and Jonathan England, a freshman from Alamo, singing baritone.

Milton R. Sewell, Vice President for Institutional Advancement and Planning, said the idea for such a group came from Dave Phillips, a former student and staff member, who saw the group as representatives of the college, recruiting friends and prospective students.

Alan Bush said the style of music they sing is wide: "We sing a variety of music, basic barber shop and religious hymns and spirituals. We also plan to do some songs such as those sung by the Oak Ridge Boys and Statler Brothers."

"The quartet got its name from the fact that we want to add a new dimension to the school and to the listeners we entertain," Bush explained.

Their first campus show is tomorrow in chapel. Trips are also planned for cities in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee. They will also perform on-campus at the Elders' Appreciation Dinner, October 16, and for Fall Weekend, November 13 and 14, and the $100 Benefit Dinner, December 4.

Dr. Sewell believes the quartet is "well received by young as well as old." He noted the group's involvement with the audience during their performance, singing with them instead of at them.

To members of the group, participation in the New Dimension Quartet offers them a chance to grow spiritually and culturally. David Dobson believes the group has a universal scope which gives them opportunities to sing for different groups—churches, senior citizens, college audiences, and supporters of the college in general.

Sadie Hawkins--Turn About is Fair Play

"It wasn't love at first sight, but it was interest at first sight," said Jane Law (nee Mackey). She was one of many who started something a little bigger than she had planned on Sadie Hawkin's Day.

She probably agrees that her three weeks of getting up courage and asking, "What if he says no?" was well worth the time. After all, that mock wedding on October 5, 1979, led to a little more realistic event on August 22, 1980.

Sadie Hawkin's Day may not always produce the results that it did for Jane and her husband, Steve, and many students are sighing with relief to know it! The occasion, however, is one of the most fun-laden events of the year.

The Junior Class has already made detailed plans for the 1981 edition of Sadie Hawkin's Day. The theme of the entire affair will be "Life on the Mississippi." Games before the chase will put new life into the beginning, while John Paul Walters, United Artists performer, will add excitement to the end of the evening. The new idea of a $25.00 award to the social club who has the most participants will not put a damper on the evening, either.

Come Friday night, October 30, 1981, girls will be grabbing their tickets, opening doors, and, at 7:30 chasing their men in a bout that is bound to make a memorable evening.

As B.J. Clarke, president of the Junior Class, put it, "Sadie Hawkin's is out of the ordinary, and people enjoy things that get them out of a rut...This year, its going to be different: a difference for the better."

Scoreboard

Womens Softball

September 28
Philo-13 AT-2
PKA-15 SR-1
September 29
TZ-5 NW-4
PKA-14 AT-0
October 1
Philo-11 NW-0
TZ-11 SR-6

Co-Rec Crabbball

September 28
AT-4 PE-1
SR-9 PKA-7
TZ-4 B/S-3
September 29
SR-5 AT-4
AT-10 B/S-3
October 1
PKA-3 AT-1
PE-20 B/S-0
SR-5 TZ-2

Mens 3-on-3 Basketball

September 28
PKA#3-21 PKA#1-19
Philo-21 SR-16
AT-7 F/S-0 (Forfeit)
Baseball-21 PG#2-7

October 1
F/S-15 TZ-14
Philo-21 PG#1-12
Baseball-21 PKA#2-14
PKA#1-21 SR-16
PKA#2-21 PG#2-10

We Make Eating Fun!

Open 11-11 Mon.-Sat.

After Church

on

Sunday Evenings

For special group rates see

Dr. B or Jo Ann Millson

Eastside Service Center

Two Blocks East of Campus

October Special - Free Car Wash
with $10 Gas Purchase

Washeteria — 12# - 14# load

With Gas Dryers (5 min.)

Car Wash
Full Service Gasoline
Mechanic on Duty

Throughout History

Coke

It is Timeless

Students Make Plans For Soccer Team

By Joe Spivy

Recognizing the growing popularity of soccer nationwide, Jay Pugh, a sophomore from Portland, TN, and Mark Meadows, a sophomore from Evansville, IN, have set out to establish a soccer team on campus this fall.

Pointing to the need for a "variety of sports" and the "inexpensive cost of fielding a soccer team," Pugh suggested that their goal of an intercollegiate team is a real possibility. Already they have been assured support by one school official who promised to back any team they might field.

Much interest has been demonstrated thus far, even though the team has not received much publicity. Meadows hopes that when others who are interested "find out about it (the soccer team), they will come too."

Among those who have turned out have been some pleasant surprises. Only two of the players have not participated in organized soccer before. The experience of the others vary. For example, Kent Carter, a freshman from Memphis, played on the Tennessee State Championship team of 1981. Ken Rutherford, a junior from Clearwater, Florida was a member of the team at Harding University.

The players think that when the public is informed about the team, that, "we can have a team the school can be proud of," said Kent Carter.

Presently, the team's plans include increasing practice sessions and scheduling of practice games. One game has been scheduled tentatively with David Lipscomb College, and other dates are being negotiated with Vanderbilt Law and Medical School teams.

Player-coach Marcel Van der Spuy is an international student from South Africa, where he played soccer, "about all my life." Although he is ineligible for sanctioned intercollegiate play, he will be able to play in other games and add expertise to the side-line.

College Football Forecast

Sponsored by our friends at Pepsi-Cola

Games for October 10

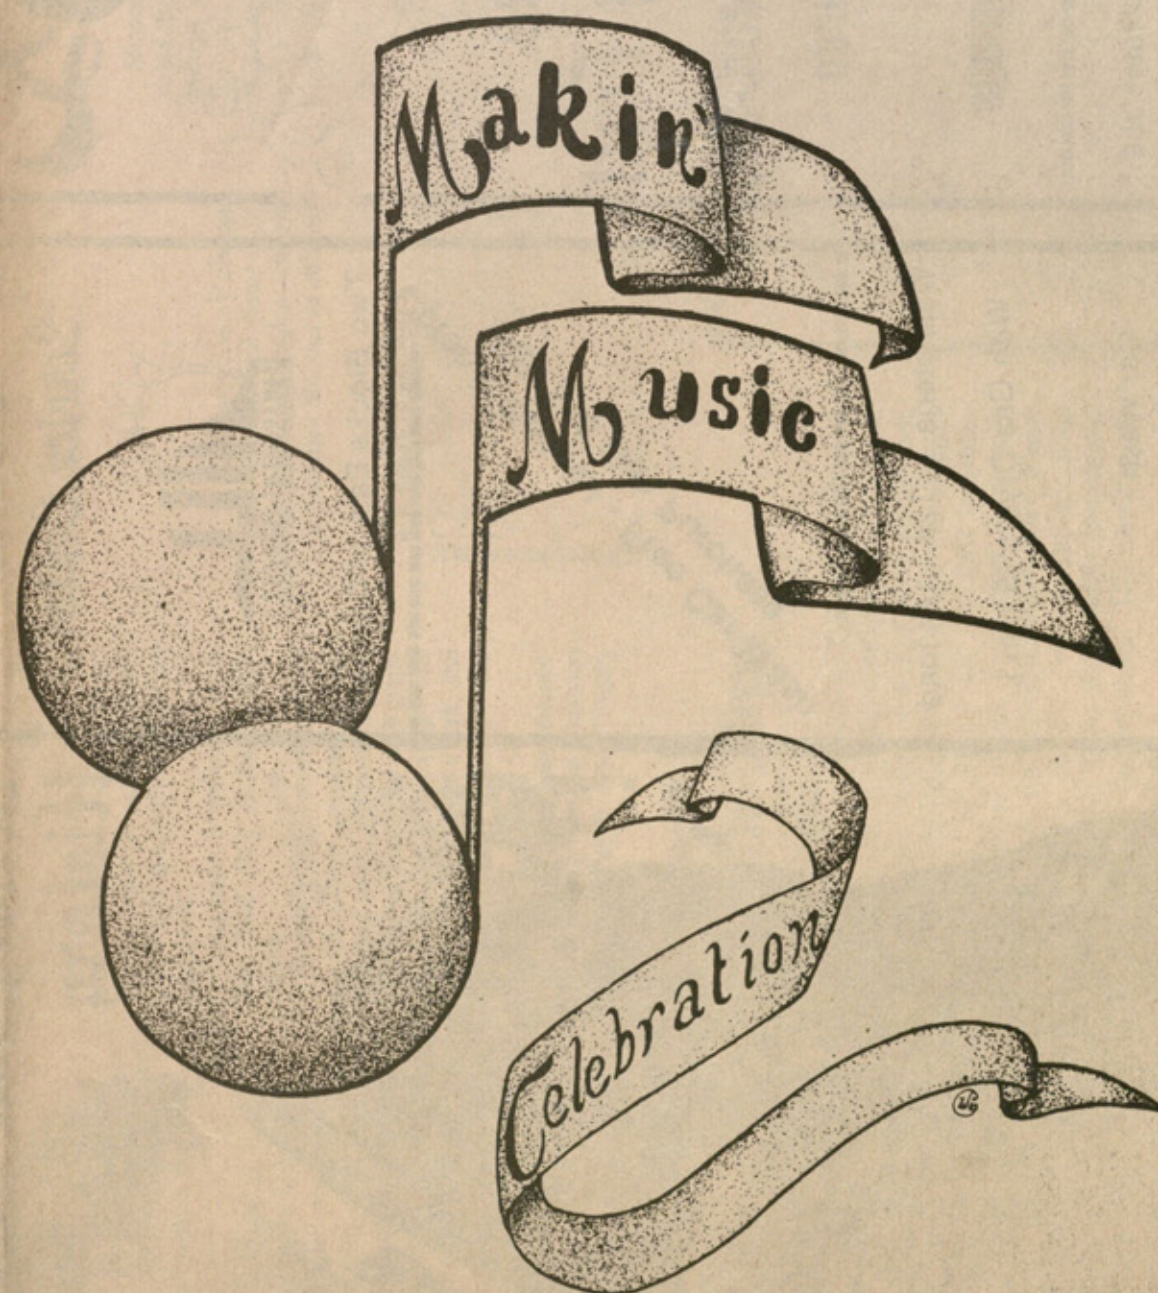

Southern Mississippi at Alabama
Southern Carolina at Kentucky
LSU at Auburn
Mississippi State at Colorado State
Georgia at Ole Miss
Maryland at Florida
Georgia Tech at Tennessee
Vanderbilt at Tulane
Arizona at USC
Wake Forest at North Carolina
Texas at Oklahoma
Boston College at Penn State

John Barber
Sports Writer
Alabama
South Carolina
LSU
Mississippi State
Georgia
Florida
Tennessee
Vanderbilt
USC
North Carolina
Oklahoma
Penn State

Kip Gunnells
Sports Writer
Alabama
South Carolina
LSU
Mississippi State
Georgia
Florida
Tennessee
Tulane
USC
North Carolina
Oklahoma
Penn State

Joe Spivy
Sports Editor
Alabama
South Carolina
Auburn
Mississippi State
Ole Miss
Florida
Tennessee
Vanderbilt
USC
North Carolina
Oklahoma
Penn State

The Bell Tower

Makin' Music Logo Winner

10/8/81