

Court awaits

This year's Homecoming court is comprised of nine girls, all of whom will be seen individually in Saturday's Homecoming procession, culminating with the crowning of this year's Homecoming queen.

The attendants representing the senior class are BeJo Herren, Susan George, and Penny Banks. One of these girls will be selected as the Homecoming Queen.

The other attendants are, from the junior class, Becky Beard and Cindy Riedout, from the sophomore class, Cyndy Tines and Chippy Brewer, and from the freshman class, Sabrina Coppage and Jill Acuff.

Leading the attendants into the gymnasium in the procession will be flower girl Cindy Cottrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Cottrell, and crownbearer Mike McGee, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McGee.

Of the nine girls in the court, five of them are from Dixon Hall, four are in Alpha Tau Lambda social club, five of them are elementary education majors, including all three senior attendants, and four of them are from Tennessee.

New auditorium under construction

FHC still is growing

The year 1976 has been a very unique year for this country. America has celebrated her bicentennial by showing the world her past accomplishments, her present undertakings, and her goals for the future.

Freed-Hardeman, of course, was a very enthusiastic participant in this celebration. Among the various new projects initiated by the college was an expansion program. According to President Gardner, this building project was yet another step in Freed-Hardeman's quest to provide "adequate facilities" to further Christian education.

Two of the most noticeable of these additions to our campus are the New Women's dormitory and the new auditorium. Not only do plans call for the auditorium to be the site of many lectureships and other gatherings, but it will also house many classrooms.

Another addition to our campus is the enlargement of Bader Gymnasium. New classrooms, dressing rooms, game rooms, offices, and a weight room were included in the enlargement. Even the swimming pool in the back of the gym received some attention in the form of new rafters.

Some of the seats in the auditorium have been set aside for people who contributed at least $100 to the school. These seats will have a gold plate affixed to them with the name of the contributor written on it. So far, about 550 seats have been set aside for this purpose.

As one might expect, all of this construction work was not done without cost. Actually, without the help of many friends of our college in several ways, much of the addition would not have taken place. The price tag of this expansion project is approximately three million dollars.

Looking to the future, one sees Freed-Hardeman slowing up the construction pace somewhat. Of course, minor improvements will be continuous

Warren to speak at $100 plate dinner

Dr. Thomas B. Warren, professor of Philosophy and Apologetics at Harding Graduate School in Memphis will be the featured speaker at the twelfth annual $100 plate dinner December 3.

The dinner is sponsored by the Advisory Board of Freed-Hardeman College. The Board, chaired by Neal Penny, plans to sell 900 tickets to the dinner which will be held in Bader Gymnasium. The proceeds from this dinner will go toward the general operation of the college.

Warren is minister for the Brownsville Road Church of Christ, editor of The Spiritual Sword, and speaker on the "5 Gospel Minutes" program. He is also a staff writer for the Gospel Advocate and has authored some 20 books.

Responsibilities recognized

Representing Freed-Hardeman College, recruiting new applicants, and fund raising are only a few of the jobs done by the Alumni Association. It is quite obvious what the Alumni Association means to F-HC.

One thing that is not quite as obvious is what Freed-Hardeman can do for its alumni. The College has several responsibilities to its alumni.

One of the most important responsibilities is to insure that a vigorous and productive alumni program exists. A second responsibility is to guarantee as firm a financial base for the alumni program as possible. Yet another thing F-HC can do for its alumni is to provide good avenues of communication through publications, chapters and on-campus events

Theatre

by Charme Roberts

December 2, 3 and 4 are the dates for the Readers Theatre Production. Marc Hayes will direct the ensemble of readers. But you ask, "what is Readers Theatre?"

Hayes and his group will present a series of cuttings from the works of various writers and perform them as dramatic readings. Readers Theatre does not include the use of staging, props or elaborate costuming, but it does include the use of voice, facial expression, gesture, and the author's words to produce an entertaining exhibition of talent.

The production will be presented in the Milan-Sitka Auditorium nightly at 7:30.

Woman's role in church

Authority to speak discussed

Ed. Note: This is the first in a series of articles about the woman's role in the church.

by John Mark Hicks

The Bible explicitly commands women to be in subjection to the men in the home and church (Eph. 5:22-24; I Tim. 2:11,12). This authority-subjection principle has recently been a problematic area for the churches of Christ. The issue boils down to one question: when does a woman violate this principle of subjection? This article attempts to posit a practical solution to the problem, that is, a means by which to class particular situations.

(1) Types of authority.

There are, basically, three types of authority in the Scriptures for practical consideration. They are termed: position authority, knowledge authority and personality authority. It is necessary to define these terms and apply them to the above problem. However, this article is restricted, due to space, to only those situations where saints gather to worship whether in a dorm devotional, home devotional, chapel or Sunday morning worship. It is not the purpose of this article to deal specifically with problems in the home.

(2) Position authority

Position authority is that which places one over another in a particular situation. He is the leader of that situation, i.e. he occupies a definitely set position over another person(s). For example, the preacher on Sunday morning asserts position authority by fact of his position in the assembly, a set position over the audience. Scripture forbids a woman to have position authority over a man in worship: "I do not permit a woman to teach or to have authority over a man." (I Timothy 2:12, NIV). "To have authority" in the Greek is a present infinitive, which means that it denotes a "condition" (Dana and Mantey, p. 199). Thus, Paul forbids a woman to be in a position of authority over a man, she must be in subjection to him. (I Timothy 2:11).

(3) Knowledge authority

Knowledge authority is that authority which leads another, but does not exert position authority. A person may lead at a particular moment in time, but not be the leader of the entire situation. For example, during a question and answer. The questioner leads the assembly at a particular moment in time, but does not by his question assume position authority. The moderator still retains position authority by fact of his position in the assembly, as the leader of that situation. There are also situations there is knowledge authority to the exclusion of position authority. A woman may have knowledge authority over a man. A Biblical example is Huldah the prophetess. In II Kings 22:14-20 the incident is told of Huldah who taught five men the word of the Lord. She did not exert position authority in that there was no designated leader, but she did lead and teach them. She led them by her teaching, but she was not the leader of the situation as the preacher is on Sunday morning.

(4) Personality authority

Personality authority is that authority which is exerted by fact of personal influence. For example, if Miss Lora has by her Christian conduct caused someone to live a better life, she has in that instance exerted personality authority. A woman may have personality authority over a man. Lydia, it is said, "persuaded" Paul to remain with her a few days. (Acts 16:15, NIV). Therefore, women are permitted to have personality authority over men.

Having explained these types of authority, application can now be made to specific situations and activities during the worship assembly. (Assembly must not be construed to mean the Sunday morning assembly, but any assembly which is constituted for the purpose of worshipping God.)

(5) The woman and prayer

Question one: "May a woman audibly lead a man in prayer?" Note that the question is not: "May a woman pray?" But rather: "May she lead a man in prayer?" The Biblical answer is no because leading prayer involves position authority. Note the chart below:

God
Leader (pos. auth.)
Ones being led

The leader of the prayer is in such a position that those being led are under his authority. They are communication to God, in a sense, through his words, thus he occupies a position authority over those whom he is leading. It is the same situation as the preacher on Sunday morning. In this case, the situation in which the prayer is stated does not determine the type of authority, but the action itself. Whether in the home, Bible class or teen devotional, the one who is leading the prayer is at that particular instance occupying position authority.

Randy Nipps said he would be soliciting more money for the fund when a definite purpose for the fund was found.

Memorial fund established

The campus stood in silence and bowed its head in honor and memory of a friend and classmate to many — Rex Chapman. Those who knew Rex knew him as a leader, a worker, and a Christian.

Many were stunned momentarily at the news of his death, but then, determined that time would not erase him from our memories, a memorial fund was set up.

So far, approximately $140 has been collected for the fund, according to Randy Nipps, Student Council president, who is heading up the fund. The problem now is deciding what to do with the money.

Due to the fact that the new auditorium was one of Rex's pet projects, it was suggested that either a chapel seat be purchased with Rex's name on it or a plaque to his honor be placed in the lobby of the auditorium.

Other suggestions deal with the new park, one stating that the park be named in his honor and another that the park be named 'Memorial Park', in honor of Rex and also of Miles Willet and Debby Casey, two students who were killed in automobile accidents during the Christmas vacation of the 1974-75 school year.

"Be still and know . . ."

by Kit and Brian Cole

College life can unintentionally make one self-centered. After all, YOU must study efficiently; YOU must get to class; YOU must get your report done on time. In other words because YOU must be responsible, some have taken this to mean that SELF comes before others. However a Christian is described as a servant, a minister, and a workman — all active terms that denote service to others. Now that report is due, I don't deny it. There's little reason to be on campus if you are not going to study. But we must not shut ourselves into little worlds of self and books. God has given a large part of His schedule for us and we need to give some to Him. We all need to consider for ourselves James' definition of pure religion and see how we measure up. (James 1:27)

by Carole Helm and Deb Buchanan

Susy and Rhonda stumbled wearily back to the dorm after a night of hard work at the theatre, getting ready for the homecoming musical.

"I'm going to fall asleep the minute I get in the room," Suzy yawned. "I may not even wait to find a bed."

"A bed?" Rhonda queried, "I may not even wait to find the room!"

Susy swung open the door to the dorm and immediately tripped over three high school students and an alumnus. The two girls stared at each other in stark realization. "Uh-oh," Rhonda breathed. "We forgot — it's homecoming!"

It definitely was Homecoming at STC (Small Tennessee College) and from the looks of the dorm, it would continue to be so for quite a while. Sleeping bags were everywhere, popcorn poppers beat a merry accompaniment to the ringing of phones and the voices of the R.A.'s are heard in our land.

Rhonda and Susy managed to leap, stumble, and fight their way to the stairs without seriously damaging any of the visitors. Halfway up the first flight, Rhonda paled and caught Susy by the arm. "I just remembered something," she wailed. "I invited three friends from home to come stay with us this weekend."

"You're kidding!" Susy gasped. "I forgot to tell you — but I invited four of my friends to come up, too!"

The girls gazed at each other in consternation. They flew to their room, with little regard for the bodies in sleeping bags lining the hallway. As they got to the door, their worst fears were confirmed. Rhonda's stereo was going full blast, the radio was on, and they sniffed the distinct odor of garlic popcorn coming from their room.

"Well," Susy sighed. "It seems that all seven of them took us up on our offers. Let's go in and see what we can do." She turned the knob and pushed. Nothing moved. "I think it's jammed!"

"No it's not!" yelled a familiar voice from inside. "That's my kid sister," Rhonda grimaced. I guess that means we also have her two friends from down the street!"

At that moment, the door opened, and Rhonda and Susy beheld chaos. On the floor were 7 sleeping bags, 13 suitcases, 3 stacks of records, and a greasy popcorn popper. In the sink was a collection of 9 total makeup kits, and assorted blow driers, toothbrushes and 53 curlers.

"We've all slept for the past 48 hours straight, now we can see what a real college weekend is like. All-night parties, popcorn at 3:00 a.m., practical jokes, EVERYTHING!! Rhonda's kid sister enthused.

"Uh, yeah, everything," Susy said, not quite as enthusiastically. But, suddenly, there was a glint in her eye. "It is our duty to let them know how college really is." "Yeah," said Rhonda, suddenly seeing her point.

"First of all, pop some more popcorn, with plenty of garlic. Now then, let's play cards." Susy and 3 of the girls began a game of rook. One girl began to fix the latest batch of popcorn.

"I know!" shouted Rhonda. "Let's pick out some nice, noisy music to play." So she and the other three girls began to rummage through the records, choosing and playing the noisiest (at full volume, of course.)

Soon the smell of popcorn filled the room. The music and laughter grew louder and louder. Suzy walked by Rhonda and gave her a wink as she walked out the door. Rhonda followed a few seconds later. "Come on, Susy, let's go to the lounge and get some sleep" said Rhonda quietly. "They'll never miss us."

'Fiddler' breaks tradition Matinee showing Saturday

by Charme Robarts

The Thespians will give a special afternoon performance of "Fiddler On The Roof" tomorrow at 2:15 p.m., in addition to their regular performances tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30. All of the shows will be presented in the Milan-Sitka Auditorium.

Playing before a near-capacity crowd each evening, since its opening on Monday, the cast has won the hearts of the audiences during its 3 night stand. Touching love scenes, candid wit, and outstanding musical performances have been the fare for the week.

Henry A. McDaniel, Jr., director of theatre, began working with his thirty member cast in September. Arthur Shearin, director of the college chorale has worked with McDaniel by directing the musical numbers. Barrie Cox, of the art department, designed the set for the show.

The Fiddler is played by Steve Stewart. The Fiddler is an imaginary figure in the play who is seen by Tevye and once by Chava as she is torn between remaining home and leaving with Fyedka.

"Fiddler On The Roof" is set in the Russian village of Anetevka and is the story of a family of poor, yet proud Jewish citizens. They, like their friends in the village, must face hardships when their way of life is threatened by the czar.

The cast members found the Russian names a bit difficult, and one cast member remarked, "It took me about three days to get the names right." As usual, the Thespians have spent long and tiring nights, but again, as usual, they have enjoyed their sacrifice.

Appearing in the play are: Cliff Laird, as Tevye; Dottie Lee, as Golde; Deb Rogers, as Yente; Patti Nolan, as Tzeitel; Rochelle Rice, as Sprintze and as Grandma Tzeitel; Terri Cothran as Chava; Mitch Laird as Motel.

Others include: Gina Herring, as Hodel, Kell Lee McDaniel, as Bielke; Ron McDade as Perchik; Steve Elrod as Modcha; Paul Pinckley as Constable; Steve Frye, as Lazar Wolf; Bob Curry, as Rabbi; Gary Eppes, as Mendel; J. E. Miller, as Sasha; Carole Davidson as Fruma Sarah; Other cast members are: Don Camp as Fyedka; Steve Stewart, as the Fiddler. Among the villagers of Anetevka are: Brenda Bailey, Bonnie Lawler, Pauletta Frailey, Greg Fulkerson, Blake Davenport, Bob Burleson, Charlen Chapman, Peggy Davenport, Blythe Currington, Denise Jackson, Jan Brown, Sharon Orgain, and Becky Porter.

Pianists for the play are April James and Phylis Billingsley.

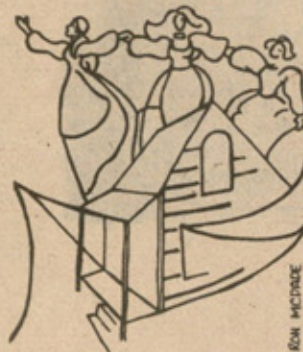

Gina Herring as Hodel listens and watches intently as Ron McDade, Perchik sings to her after she has accepted his proposal. "I used to tell myself that I had everything but that was only half true. I had an aim in life and that was everything but now I even have you."

Tevye, the Dairyman reminiscing his daughter Chava's younger days; before she left her family to marry Fyedka, a Gentile. "You were always such a pretty little thing, everybody's fav'rite child."

The villagers gather here to share the latest rumor. From l to r the characters are Mordcha, Stephen Elrod; Mendel, Gary Elpes; and two villagers Peggy Davenports and Pauletta Frailey.

Penny Banks, 21, a senior attendant, is from Rockford, Ill., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Banks. An elementary education major, she is especially interested in teaching young children. She is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha social club and is a dormitory representative to the Student Council from Dixon Hall. Her interests are ice skating in the summer and canoeing in the summer. Her escort is Jerry Senn from Chickamauga, Ga.

Another of the senior attendants, from which the Homecoming Queen will be chosen, is Susan George. Susan, 21, is an elementary education major from Waverly, Tenn. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray George. She is a member of Sigma Rho social club and lives in Dixon Hall. Her hobbies and interests include sewing and working with children. Her escort is David Anguish from Atlanta, Ga.

Rebecca Jo Herren, 21, a senior attendant, is better known as BeJo. She is an elementary education major from Rockford, Ill., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Herren. BeJo is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha social club and is one of the senior class representatives to the Student Council. She is interested in art and sewing and, like the other senior attendants, she is from Dixon Hall. She was a member of last year's court as a junior attendant and will be escorted this year by Tommy Holland of Henderson, Tn.

Students select Homecoming court

The attendants from the junior class this year are Cindy Riedout and Becky Beard.

Cindy, 20, is an elementary education major from Florence, Ala. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Riedout.

Cindy, a resident of Hall-Roland Hall, is a member of the Alpha Tau Lambda social club and is a cheerleader. She enjoys sports of any kind, but especially swimming. She says she is also a fan of country music.

Cindy will be escorted by Johnny Cooper of Huntsville and was a member of the Homecoming court her freshman year.

Becky, 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Beard, Jr., of Lebanon, Tn. She is studying to be a medical technologist and plans to enter med school soon.

Becky is a member of the Lambda Delta Phi social club, Evangelistic Forum, and GRTC. Her interests include photography, piano, flute, and bike-riding and jogging for exercise.

Becky, from O'Neal House, will be escorted by Harvey Johnson, from Houston, Tx.

This year's sophomore class will be represented on the Homecoming court by Cyndy Tines and Chippy Brewer.

Cyndy, 19, is from Memphis, Tn., and plans to become certified to teach business. She lives in Bradfield Hall and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon P. Tines.

Cyndy is a member of the Alpha Tau Lambda social club and the business club, Phi Beta Lambda. She is interested in decoupage, guitar playing, and sewing.

Cyndy will be escorted in the Homecoming procession by John Jones from Waverly, Tn.

Chippy, 19, is a social work major from Henderson, NC, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Brewer.

Chippy, from Dixon Hall, is a member of Lambda Delta Phi social club and is interested in sports, bike-riding, working with flowers and animal, and working with mentally retarded children.

Chippy, who represented the freshman class last year in the Homecoming court, will be escorted by F. H. Gates from New Philadelphia, Ohio.

The Alpha Tau Lambda social club forms the common ground for the freshman attendants this year, Sabrina Coppage and Jill Acuff.

Sabrina, 17, is a health and physical education major from Valdosta, Ga., and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Coppage.

She is a member of Alpha Tau Lambda social club and the tumbling team, the Griffins. Her interests include tumbling and sports in general.

Sabrina, a resident of Hall-Roland Hall, will be escorted by Roger Willoughby of Albertsville, Ala.

Jill, also 17, is an elementary education major from Chattanooga, Tn. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Acuff.

Jill is the secretary of the freshman class and plays basketball for the Alpha Tau Lambda social club.

Jill, a resident of Dixon Hall, will be escorted by Tommy Ruiz, also of Chattanooga, Tn.

'Twas the night before Homecoming

by Bonnie Lawler

Sylvia Coile in the background and another TAG fan work on their Homecoming float. The TAG social club for married students won first place in last year's competition.

'Twas the night before Homecoming and all through the house All the creatures were stirring even the Ad building mouse. The floats and the decorations were semi-finished with care, In hopes that those prizes would soon be theirs. The students were snoring all cosie in bed With visions of few dreams still left in their heads. By 6 a.m. most had settled down for their short winter's nap. When out on the Main there arose such a clatter. I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew in a flash, tore open the curtains and pushed back the trash. The bright glowing sun through the trees glimmered low. And gave a luster of Midday to the leaves below. And what to my wandering eyes do appear but the end of the parade and everyone ready to cheer.

Then at my door a knock so loud and quick I knew in a moment I was going to be sick. More rapid than lions they made their blames And whistled and shouted and called me by names With courage I walked over to unlock the door.

They rushed in pushing me to the floor I sat there stunned searching for a word Then they clammoured loudly, "Haven't you heard!" "We have won!" they exclaimed, "oversleeping is no crime." HAPPY HOMECOMING TO ALL AND TO ALL A GOOD TIME!

Last year's Homecoming parade consisted of various types of floats. The theme of America's birthday was repeatedly used.

The F-HC band is alive and well. This group consists of about 30 students.

Murphy revives band

After remaining defunct for three years, the F-HC band was brought back to life this year by Dr. Philip Murphy, director.

Murphy, who came to Freed-Hardeman after teaching and directing a band and instrument work for 14 years, says he hopes to develop a good concert band at FHC. From this, he says he would also like to set up a pep band, stage band, and a touring band. He said that he knew of no reason why Freed-Hardeman could not have a good band and hopes the program will expand.

There are presently 30 members in the band. They have been rehearsing in chapel hall since the first of the semester, and they started marching practice recently. Murphy said that the band is coming along better than had been expected.

During homecoming, the band will play in the Saturday morning assembly and march in the parade.

The band will also play at all the home games. There are also plans to present a "pop" concert on campus in the coming weeks.

Murphy says some instruments are still needed and if anyone has a band instrument that he would be willing to loan or donate to the school, he should contact him as soon as possible.

Medallion presented

Henry A. McDaniel and Larry McKenzie presented President E. Claude Gardner with the first marked Freed-Hardeman College medallion. The presentation was made in a recent college chapel session where Gardner also presented McDaniel with a medallion marked 92, significant of the number of years the college has existed.

The Freed-Hardeman medallion has just recently been completed. The front of the coin shows the name of the college, the date of its establishment and replicas of A. G. Freed and N. B.

Hardeman. The backside of the coin ties together the themes of

The first F-HC medallion was presented to President E. Claude Gardner by Henry A. McDaniel, the bicentennial chairman. The Director of Alumni Affairs watches the presentation.

Harriers display determination

by Jan Elkins

On your mark! Get set! Go! And the cross country team is off, running up and down hills, over creeks, and around the trees.

Freed-Hardeman's cross country team was led by Tim Firm, then Gary Huey, Paul Loftin, Richard (T.P.) Roland, Dennis Higgins, Pat Kelley and Terry Burgess. The coach for this year's team was Frank Bradford, and this was his first year to work with the team. Bradford said that not much coaching was required, but that it was up to the individual to work like he should. He said that he could tell the team how many miles they should run, but there was no way he could make them run if they didn't want to.

Bradford emphasized the determination that the guys had to have to want to be on the team. These men had to love to run, and want to run badly enough to work hard for it each day. Bradford required a minimum of running 7-10 miles a day, suggesting that the team needed to run twice what the race was going to be. There is not much glory involved, and people don't run 7-10 miles a day just for the fun of it, so these men are really dedicated and determined.

The record this year was 1-5 and Freed-Hardeman competed against such schools as: University of Alabama, Vanderbilt, David Lipscomb, Tennessee Tech and Austin Peay. In these schools some of the men were running up to 120-130 miles a week in training. Freed-Hardeman's team attended Invitationals at David Lipscomb, Harding, TIAC and Bradshaw.

The average course is from 4-6 miles long, and the meets are usually held in some park. Freed-Hardeman hosts its meets at Chickasaw, and some of the steep hills give the runners a hard time.

It has been rumored that there will not be a cross country team next year. That is a possibility since it is hard to find a good coach. However, if enough interest is shown in the team, another good coach will probably be found and Freed-Hardeman men will once again line up, hoping to be the first to cross the line.

1976-77 Lion cheerleaders: Kathy Taylor, Regina Colbert, Cindy Riedont, Pam Kelly, Regina Jones, Ann Duncan - sponsor, Judy Armstrong, Lisa Puckett, Lana Stone, Spring Powell.
